Mr. Savage then introduced the orator of the evening. Mr. Conly, who enlightened the audience considerably upon his family and personal history, remarking, at the conclusion, that all his wealth consisted in three dollars, which was rather above the usual figure, as his real estate generally consisted of two one dollar bil's. He then, very generously, made an offer of his wealth to any body in need of it, and remarked that in return, if any one felt inclined to forward him and his labors, there was the hat, but he did not want any rum sellers, who might happen to be present, to tax themselves for his support. Mr. Savage, however, at this part of the proceedings came forward and put in the claims of the association to any contribution that might be made, as they were in arrears for rent. He then gave another blow, as he deemed it, at the Star; saying we, as the Star says, cannot be expected to pay all the expenses. A collection was then taken up; but by this time, full one-half of the audience, tired of the prosy discourse of the temperance lecturer, had gone out, and we followed their example.

CLOSE OF THE VARIETE.-The Variete The-

s resolution, beginning: We, the people.

atre terminated its season on Saturday night with a benefit for the Boon children, which, however, did not, apparently, turn out a lucrative affair, nor was it a well managed one. of the curtain, long after the hour announced, it being evident that there was something wrong behind the curtain. This, it appeared afterwards, was the fact, the performances commencing with the balcony scene from Komeo and Julliet, although the first piece mentioned in the play-bills was a portion of the Merchant of Venice. At the conclusion of the former scene, in which Mrs. Anna Boon played Romeo to the Juliet of one of her children, the curtain dropped. A long interval of forward to the front of the stage with her two children, one on each side, and complained of the treatment she had received from Mr. Risley, who had not acted, she said, fairly towards her. It appeared that several members of the company at Baltimore had been promised for the evening, but they had failed to come, according to the agreement, leaving her unable to fulfil her promise as announced in the play-bills for the evening's entertainments. Mrs. Boon likewise complained that her children's wardrobe had been stolen, and that she had been altogether a loser by her engagement, but that she and her children would do their best for the evening, although the entertainments must be changed. The two children then went through a part of Macbeth, which, we must candidly confess, was an extraordinary performance, for it is seldom that such acting is witnessed, even from the best of players. The Boon children are so well known, that a criticism upon their performances would be superfluous. It is but just. however, that we should award them our mite of commendation, for the rare histrionic abilities they eviace. To witness their performance. young as they are, is a rich intellectual entertainment. We are sorry that everything has not turned out as it should, for talent especially, in such youthful actors, ought to be rewarded and protected, or else it may be nipped

THE CAPITOL .- We noticed yesterday that one of the large derricks or cranes used for hoisting the marble blocks at the Capitol improvements, lay prostrated across the terrace in front of the Capitol, having been snapped in two by the heavy fall, which must have occurred a few nights since. How it happened we do not know, but should conclude that if it had been securely attached, the accident could not have occurred. As it now is, it has been supported on trestles, a part of it lying in the area of the Capitol. As it lay yesterday, it appeared in a rather dangerous condition, as people were obliged to stoop in order to get under it, in their passage from one part of the building to the other. We observe, that a small portable engine and boiler, fixed on a wooden carriage, has been brought to the new buildings for the purpose of facilitating the labor, such as hoisting, pumping, &c. It is a small oscillating engine, of about five horse power, made by Vail, of Norristown, New Jersey.

PATENT OFFICE .- We observe that the masons are busily employed in the interior of the Patent Office building, in the wing, used for the exposition of the models, in building up a partition wall, the object being, we are informed. to divide a part of it off for offices. The effect will be that the space devoted, at present, to the exhibition of models, will be considerably curtailed, and what is worse, this floor, which is already deficient in light, will be rendered still more obscure by this alteration. We should conclude that the present meagre accommodation for the models is only temporary, and that it is intended to devote part of the additional buildings, now in course of erection, to their use when completed.

"MERCURY" SET RIGHT.-In the Baltimore Sun of this morning we find the following, which "Mercury" announces as an important item of news relating to this city:

"A council of the Congregationalist denomination of Christians will commence in this city to-morrow. Some of their ministers preached with high acceptance in our churches to-day.'

Congregational ministers preach in any of the 1853 amounted to 96,839 whole and 2323 half lethars churches of the city "to-day" (yesterday) except Rev. Alexander Duncanson, pastor of the Congregational Church. But this Council does assemble on Saturday next, at 3 o'clock, P. M.; and it is to be composed of ministers invited from all the Associations in the United States. Some of the most eminent divines in the country have written that they will be here: and the public are invited to attend the exercises, which will commence on Saturday afternoon, and there will be three services on the Sabbath.

ROBBED IN PHILDELPHIA. -On last Friday evening, a robbery was committed in Philadelphia, on Charles Fisher, a German, from-Washington, by two notorious thieves, Benjamin Pryor and James Sordin, in the house of a woman named Susan Fisher, who had decoyed him there for the purpose of procuring him a laundress. He was stripped of his coat, gloves and pocket book, when he made his escape and ran to the southeast police station house Officers Zane and Kane were soon on the spot, and succeeded in arresting the thieves. together with Elizabeth Williams, an accom-

STRALING WOOD .- One night last week, a woman and a negro boy were caught stealing their sex in other quarters, that they have wood from the yard of the railroad company taken rather high dudgeon at being so uncerby some of the police, who had been placed on the watch, and have been held to bail to answer the charge before the criminal court. It appers that the company have lost a large quantity of wood from their yard, as much, it is said, as fifty cords. The delinquents will probably be tried this session.

COMET .- The comet, of which mention has been made in the newspapers in different parts of the country, was visible last night in our horizon, and presents the same appearance as that of last year, being seen in about the same bitten by a cat about two months ago, diel in quarter of the heavens.

CRIMINAL COURT. -Contrary to expectation, the jury in the case of Captain Schaumburg, agreed upon a verdict at a late hour on Saturday night, and were accordingly allowed to go home. As, however, the Court had adjourned hours before they had come to an agreement, There was a large crowd of spectators pres-

The defendant was in the court when the verdict was delivered. There is one thing noticeable about the Criminal Court which requires improvement; we allude to the little courtesy extended to Star," for March 30, and read, in what was ering that the Criminal Court is par excellence the peoples' Court, every convenient means should be afforded to reporters of obtaining information of its doings. The publi: are inclined to be suspicious, when officials throw obstacles in the way of obtaining information, and are inclined to inquire whence they derive their power and their fees. They should not the people upon many things with which they are, perhaps, unacquainted. BAPTISM OF TEN PERSONS .- There was a 37th verse; from which he showed that baptism was manifestly designed by heavenly wisdom, and that it is a duty distinctly impressed on every convert's heart, as was exhibited in the instance of the eunuch whom Philip baptised. At the conclusion of the sermon, preparations were made for the performance of the rite-the desk being removed the boards taken up-when there was exhibited to the assembly an open space of about 12 feet by 6, filled with water to the derth of 4 fee. The parties to be baptised then ascended the platform, the ladies being arranged on one side and the gentlemen on the other. A short prayer having been given, the officiating min-ister descended into the water, when one of the gentlemen was the first called on to be dipped; then followed one of the ladies: and a), alternately, to the end. The ladies were attired in long white flannels; and on coming out of the water had a large woolen shaw The audience (and it was a very slim one) thrown over them, and at once retired. We waited patiently for a long time for the rising must say there was little or no timorousness exhibited by them. and that they displayed much more bravery than the gentlemen in the cold element. Altogether it was a very solemn service-many a face being moistened by tears, which we observed. The benediction having been given, the immense assemblage were dismissed

A GREAT NUISANCE.-Every Sunday, when the weather will possibly allow it, a crowd of time again elapsed before the curtain rose steps of the City Hall, and by their noisy and on its being drawn up, Mrs. Boon came shout; and ribaldry entirely set at naught the sacredness of the day. We do not especially object to young men, or boys, or any other class of persons, walking out of a Sunday for the purpose of enjoying fine weather; indeed, it is rather pleasant than otherwise; but for a large crowd of boisterous youths to regularly assemble at so conspicuous and public a place as the Sity Hall, and desecrate the sanctity of the Sabbath by their hideous howlings, does not certainly reflect much credit upon themselves, or the parents and authorities who permit it. We think, therefore, if the parents of the young men in question are not capable of preventing them from forming such assemblies. it is the duty of the police to interfere.

PROSPERI'S BAND -An account was given the other day, in our local columns, of a serenade given to Major Crawley, of the Military Argus, in which the credit of the affair is given to Espeuda's Band. This was an error. The serenade was given by Prosperi's Band. as a voluntary compliment on their part.

PROFESSOR SCHONENBERG'S LECTURE .- The lecture by Professor Schonenberg, which was to have been delivered on Thursday night, but which was postponed on account of the weathhope, there will be a full attendance to remunerate the lecturer for the expense to which he must have been placed by the necessary postponement of the above.

"HONESTY THE BEST POLICY."-A gentleman, stopping at Brown's, engaged a hackman to carry him to a distant part of the city. On his return the gentleman paid the driver, giving him a ten dollar note in place of a dollar The driver went to Brown's repeatedly to find the gentleman, but being unable to see him. he left nine dollars with the proprietor, to be given him when he returned. That driver will lose nothing by the act.

Every voter in the town is invited to be present. We would suggest to the speakers to get upon the platform so that all may hear.

ALEXANDRIA, April 1, 1854. The Weather-Fishtown, some talk about -Hallowell's Lectures.

ALEXANDRIA CORRESPONDENCE.

The dark lowering weather of last week cleared away on the evening of Saturday, and yesterday came out bright and beautiful. Our churches were well filled at morning and evening services, but the continued northwest wind, kept our fair ones within doors and there were few promenades upon the streets. Of course that city ulcer, Fishtown, was in full blast. The rowdies and vagabonds of your city who find it difficult to procure liquor under the operation of your Sunday law, visit five points. This is the only place in the world believe, where there is a regular Fair for the exhibition of physical and moral filth-an annual Congress of the offal of land and water. Plumb's Gallery. Cameo Daguerreotypes taken in Other spots renowned for infamy grow up by degrees, and are surrounded by circumstances that render it almost impossible to remove them; but here alone, do vice and filth combine to hold a yearly camp meeting, whose scenes of misery and stench are to be looked for with the same certainty as the return of verdure. This, in the midst of a civilized. christian, moral community, almost upon the property owned by the Corporation, is intolerable. Let our city fathers look to this matter and their own consciences. Philanthrophy is quarrel with the press, who can often enlighten healing up the sores of New York's Five Points. It is time decency should do something for our moral Lazar house.
